

We thoroughly recommend you take up some form of training to participate in this event. This will ensure you are physically prepared and will help ensure you complete and enjoy the challenge. The route will be flat, and you will be walking mainly on the pavement at your own pace.

Training

Walking the 25km route does not require an extensive training plan and regular walking about 3 times a week is sufficient. You need to build up your walking so that you by the time of the challenge you can comfortably walk for 4 hours with regular breaks. To keep yourself motivated and avoid the boredom of walking alone, why not join with a friend/s and The Victoria Foundation Training sessions.

Hydration

It is very important to stay hydrated and it is essential that you drink water regularly during your training and during the challenge.

Group Training Sessions

TVF will arrange weekly training sessions during the two months leading up to the trek meeting up at various locations. Please email if you would like to join us: l.votier@thevictoriafoundation.org.uk

Injury Prevention

Walkers experience one of the lowest incidences of injury among exercisers. Injuries that do occur are often easily prevented: inadequate training and over-training can lead to injury, as can poorly fitting shoes and socks, poor flexibility, inadequate hydration, and nutrition. It is essential that you 'break in' any new walking shoes or boots prior to the challenge.
